Explanation:

Estelle is the ultimate midfielder that excels at core control and interrupting enemy passes. A lot of her strength lies in her great blink, which you can use to perfectly put the core where you want it to be. So a lot of S Tier awakenings are focused on making her teleport having either more range (and thus having more pressure across the map) or getting a second use of it. Hotshot being the outlier here; it's just a great awakening for core Control characters.

A-Tier gets more general. More uses of the primary, getting around faster, giving faster passes.

B-Tier gets more situational. Are you getting hit a lot? Stagger Swagger! Are you the one getting the Kills? Deadeye or Adrenaline Rush. One big outlier here might be Missile Prop. While it is great on your Ultimate, it makes your blink insanely more inaccurate and harder to operate, due to the fact, that your projectiles get more range and not the blink. I'd recommend only taking missile prop if you already have a dash awakening or if you get a lot of use out of your ult in the match.

C-Tier is hit or miss. Catalyst or Egoist themselves are C-Tier only, but together they make one S-Tier. Kinda the same goes with Orbs. If you die a lot, Unstoppable is a decent pick, to get some more breathing room.

D- and F-Tier are almost completely useless. Prize Fighter if you actually are getting Kills, reverb if you get staggered a lot. Size is rarely a concern for Estelle, since she uses her ranged abilities to push the core into the goal, instead of using her strike.

Explanation:

you get your cooldowns hella quick so stinger is strong, cooldowns go crazy, quick strikes is bis on everyone i think.

adrenaline rush gives 1 sec off cooldowns, which is the big want on it. magnetized soles might be real idk, but siphoning wand is definitely real on some maps where you don't need to be smoovin and just need to be killin like demon dais.

this tier list was made with the playstyle of abusing strike to lower cooldowns in mind so killing opponents solo through damage is very real
